

Wrongful Death

We represent families who have lost loved ones through the careless or reckless actions of individuals, corporations, or other entities.

We recognize that each family member may be affected in unique ways and have unique losses. We work with grief therapists and other counselors to understand these losses and to secure a just result for the family. For example, we have worked with families in wrongful death cases involving tractor-trailer and tanker collisions, defective products, poor security at apartment buildings, and in pro bono representation stemming from the 9/11 attack on the World Trade Center.
